- ➤ We encourage the clients to give us a sample to translate so that they understand the quality and ethos of our work

We have a well-evolved and quality-oriented document translation process, which can be briefly summarized in the following steps:

➢ Step 1: Client contacts us with the document that needs to be translated and document turnaround time.

➢ Step 2: We reply with the quote and any other questions / doubts regarding the document. We also discuss the estimated time for completing the translation and the quality check is also subsequently.

➢ Step 3: Client gets back with the confirmation.

➢ Step 4: We choose the suitable translator and the work is allocated.

➢ Step 5: Once the translation work is completed, a quality test follows, in which the document is checked for its quality, localization criteria and DTP.

➢ Step 6: After the quality-testing the translated document is sent to the client.

➢ Step 7 (optional): In case there are any modifications to be done on the translated document, those changes are done.
➢ Quality Assurance is a key component of any translation management system. Our QA process allows delivering excellent translations while continuously improving the overall quality.

➢ Translations In India is unique: for each new customer, our Language Resources Team pre-selects translators on their experience in the subject matter and their references

➢ A translator and a reviewer work on each project (where clients choose review). The reviewer checks for correctness, appropriate writing style and consistency.

➢ If issues are found, they are documented in our issue tracking system. Issues get severity levels, which help prioritize them and also allows Translations In India to produce translator rating.

➢ The entire review process is completely transparent to the client. The client can choose to assist to the QA process if needed. For example, if the translator and reviewer are discussing the best writing style, the client may help by explaining about the target audience.

Phase 1 (choosing our linguists)

➢ Native translators with a degree in languages or a degree in any other subject.

➢ At least 5-10 year experience

➢ Pass interviews and rigorous subject–specific language tests.)All of our translations are completed by in–country, native speakers of the target language and reviewed for accuracy and style by a second linguist who also specializes in the subject matter

Phase 2: Project preparation

The project manager appoints a project team, prepares a project kit/glossary and provides technical training for team members if necessary. The project manager also foresees potential problems and finds feasible solutions to avoid any unexpected setbacks.

Phase 3: TEP

TEP Processes (TEP=Translation, Editing and Proofreading)

Query reports and regular meetings are used to solve problems and share information promptly. Editors review 100% of the translations by comparing the target language against the source language. Accuracy, grammar, spelling, and writing style are checked thoroughly. Proof-readers also simulate the experience of the end user by proofreading the text without referring to the source documents.

Phase 4: 2A

➢ Quality Assurance (QA)
   Then, TIL performs a final Quality Assurance check by a 3rd linguist to ensure that the translation is error-free

➢ QA Tools

➢ TIL uses TM tools to create project–specific glossaries that aid ALL translators and proof-readers working on a project. TM tools help maintain language consistency across multiple projects and multiple groups of translators.

➢ After the whole translation process is complete, our QA specialists will double–check and test each and every project before delivering it back to the client.

Phase 5: Sign off

A sign-off is done by the project team members and the QA manager to perform a final review of the project to make sure all the requirements have been satisfied with high quality. The files are sent to the client.

Phase 6: Project summary

The PM and QA manager internally evaluate the project quality and team members' performance. The glossary is updated and stored in our system.
