11. Functional Summary: I like giving services to societies for many reasons. I was brought up in a society of Ethiopia where helping each other was considered an obligatory routine. I have learnt a great deal since childhood that money and wealth can never bring non-lasting pleasure. Instead sharing what you have with someone gives you the ultimate satisfaction. Further, I like giving services to others because I believe that the world can be the better place to live for the further generation if we could ever work hard in hand today to eradicate the present difficulties.
