Zelle (only via Reserve, no geographical limits, up to $150 a day, no extra fees): necessarily following this process: 1. Client provides the data of the Zelle account from which the money will be sent: full name (exactly as registered at the bank) and e-mail address. 2. On a previously agreed and confirmed date and time, I get a Zelle account's data on the app on my phone and provide the client with it (Reserve relies on independent Zelle users available at the exact moment when the money is deposited). 3. Client sends the money to the account provided and provides me with: transaction confirmation number; transaction capture; Zelle's e-mail data, entire e-mail text or capture. 4. I introduce the confirmation number in the app and provide feedback about the results (they are always OK).
